Chris Arledge is a Partner at Ellis George LLP. He has been trying intellectual property and other complex business disputes for more than twenty years.

Chris has landed multimillion-dollar verdicts for plaintiffs in a wide range of cases involving patents, trademarks, licensing agreements, and other commercial disputes, as well as defense verdicts for defendants.

Chris's work has been praised by judges who presided over his trials:

- One (now-retired) federal judge described Chris's closing argument as "one of the best closing arguments [he has] seen in 40 years."
- A Superior Court judge declared that Chris's "cross examination of the plaintiff was the most riveting examination [he's] seen in any trial ... exquisite work."
- Another Superior Court judge said Chris's cross examinations in a two-month jury trial were "as good as anything I've ever seen. Your ability to keep control of the witness while also telling a story was something I don't think I've seen anybody else do. If I were still practicing, I would go to one of your classes or read your book."

Chris is an experienced and successful advocacy instructor. He is the co-author of the book To Prove, To Please, To Move: Timeless Principles of Legal Advocacy. Chris has taught trial advocacy and deposition skills around the world, including programs at some of the largest, most-prestigious law firms in the country. Chris is also a member of the faculty for the Advanced Advocacy Course for Barristers in Dublin, Ireland and for the Advanced International Advocacy Course at Oxford University in England. Chris has also taught the "Art of Persuasion for Lawyers" and "Taking and Defending Depositions" courses at Chapman University School of Law.

After years on the faculty for the National Institute for Trial Advocacy, Chris has developed his own trial-training program that he offers to bar associations, law firms, Inns of Court, and law schools. His program is a performance-based program where students learn to try cases by performing actual witness examinations, opening statements, and closing arguments. What separates Chris' program from other successful trial-training programs is the emphasis on using effective storytelling in all aspects of trial and a focus on creating and protecting the advocate's credibility.

Chris's articles on persuasion and trial advocacy have appeared in the ABA Journal, Law360, California Lawyer, OC Lawyer, and the Daily Journal, and Chris was profiled on Law360's "Trial Pros" series.

Education

- University of Southern California, J.D., Order of the Coif
- William Jewell College, B.A., magna cum laude

Bar Admissions

- California

After graduating from law school at the University of Southern California, Chris clerked for the Honorable Charles Wiggins on the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit and spent three years as an associate at O'Melveny & Myers before co-founding the law firm One LLP in Southern California. After 19 years at One LLP, Chris joined the partnership at Ellis George LLP.

Sample First-Chair Trial Results

- A $7 million jury verdict in a trade secret case.
- A $4.3 million arbitration award in an international licensing dispute concerning the use of well-known soccer marks.
- A $2 million jury verdict in a trademark counterfeiting case.
- A $1.68 million judgment in a patent case. The jury confirmed the validity and enforceability of the patent, found the defendant's infringement to be willful, and granted the requested 15% royalty. The court granted a post-trial request for enhanced damages.
- A $1.58 million arbitration award in a dispute over software development.
- A directed verdict in a multi-million-dollar trade dress dispute in federal court.
- A successful defense in a mass media defamation case involving a world-famous celebrity. The jury awarded only $10,000 to a plaintiff who sought millions for, he claimed, falsely being called a drug dealer.
- An arbitration award granting the client an ownership interest in a television program.
- A defense verdict in a three-week jury trial in an intentional interference with contract case.
- A defense verdict in a two-month jury trial in a defamation case with $80 million at stake. Chris came in just before trial to second chair the case and handle the key cross examinations. The trial judge later said those cross examinations were "as good as anything I've seen."

Chris believes that lawyers are, above all, called to persuade, and Chris therefore studies and teaches the principles of persuasion. He has taught the Art of Persuasion at Chapman Law School and has lectured on persuasion widely, to bar associations, Inns of Court, and law firms. Chris's first continuing legal education program on persuasion remains the highest-rated MCLE program ever offered by one of the major online MCLE providers. See participant feedback here: (Link)

Chris handles all manner of complex business disputes, but he has special proficiency in intellectual property matters, particularly disputes over copyrights, trademarks, and trade secrets. In recent years, he has handled disputes involving the intellectual property of celebrities like Madonna, Don Henley, Kobe Bryant, Bette Davis, and Perez Hilton.

- “Great presentation!” – Bonnie (Fremont, CA)
- “he was actually interesting. told good stories. used good examples. animated. i can imagine he’s a convincing trial lawyer. use more trial lawyers to teach these courses.” – elsie (ATLANTIC BCH, FL)
- “every young ...and some not so young attorneys need to take this course.” – MICHAEL (CALABASAS, CA)
- “The Speaker was very dynamic and engaging. Very practical tips on public speaking.” – Marinna (Gardena, CA)
- “Good presentation.” – Gregory (Kingwood, TX)
- “Liked his approach to staying authentic when talking to audiences. seems like common sense but so many lawyers are all about the ego ...” – Jennille (Dana Point, CA)
- “I thought this would be a speech class, but I was wrong. Best presentation I’ve heard/seen in some time.” – Tom (Lewisville, TX)
- “XLNT!” – Robert (San Diego, CA)
- “He’s very good. Good common sense approach. Easy to listen to.” – Linda (Naperville, IL)
- “I thought Chris did a really good job. His program kept my interest. Good advice.” – Linda (Naperville, IL)
- “This was perhaps the best CLE presentation from your company I’ve seen so far.” – Frank (Glendale, NY)
- “No. It was very persuasive.” – Hakan B. (New York, NY)
- “This course was fantastic! phenomenal speaker, interesting topic, VERY well presented.” – Joanna (South Orange, NJ)
- “Very excellent” – Clifford (White Plains, NY)

- “No. Instructor is excellent, easy voice and good instructions now and if needed at a later date. Hire him again.” – David (, )
- “None. The speaker was outstanding.” – George (, )
- “Excellent speaker. His presentation was a living example of some of the points he was making about exuding credibility and likeability as a speaker. My brother who is also an attorney is dealing with the type of difficult personality the speaker was discussing. Very insightful and valuable information in this video.” – Kevin (, )

- “Very good, practical tips for courtroom use.” – Nancy (, )
- “I am in court every day. His lecture about the dangers of over-aggressive lawyering was excellent. I have witnessed all the pitfalls he described. His advice and suggested strategies reaffirm the importance of looking at the bigger picture in the context of litigation.” – meryem (, )
- “Nice job. If all speakers followed his guidelines the world would be full of good speakers. But as I’m sure he knows a lot of the “stuff” you need to be a good speaker is genetic.” – Thomas R (Palatine, IL)
- “This was very practical and well done presentation – best one I’ve seen; really practical information on how making a concession relates to persuasion principles of reciprocity. Also really thought the run down of how your “shark” behavior helps out the other side (case won’t settle, justifies bigger bills, etc.). Great stuff” – Phillip (, )
- “This was by far the best presenter I’ve seen on the CLE classes – I liked the fact that it was being presented in front of an audience. Really good.” – Phillip (, )
- “Chris is just an excellent presenter and listening to his presentation tips was a joy – great practical tips on presenting, and great reminders. Especially liked the tips on use of Powerpoint, connecting with audience, use of voice tone, eye contact.” – Phillip (, )
- “Chris is a natural at these CLE courses – you should do as many as you can with him, and try to find others who can present their topics like him. Really great.” – Phillip (, )
- “The presenter was a perfect model for the topic — he demonstrated, by his own persuasive efforts and bolstering of his own credibility, the main points he was making about strategic concessions. Also, he effectively explained why judges and clerks would tune out vitriol and “take no prisoners” presentations.” – Paul (, )
- “Great” – Eric (, )
- “Very practical, great background.” – Eric (, )
- “Excellent.” – Eric (, )
- “Practical (some common sense) information relayed in an engaging manner. Enjoyed.” – Jessica (, )
- “Personally, I appreciated the movie references – they were right on – I even called the Bond Girl “Aerobics Physic Chic” with distain and I’m a blonde woman!” – Polly (, )
- “One of the best CLE’s I have seen.” – john (, )
- “This was an excellent program. I actually wish this instructor had been in a classroom setting so that you could ask him questions.” – Stephanie (, )
